Cindy was a sissy, but Dennis may be a menace

Overall, Hancock County suffered little damage from Tropical Storm Cindy Tuesday night, although a few trees were toppled in the county by Cindy's high winds, according to area emergency officials.

"Our Emergency Management Agency, (EMA) was prepared for the worse. We were lucky this time, but, our concern now is on Tropical Storm Dennis which is predicted to enter the Central Gulf and become a hurricane shortly," EMA director Brian Adam said Wednesday morning.

The Hancock EMA team came together Tuesday evening, with all agencies responding and taking their respective responsibilities, Adam reported.

Adam reported there was about an eight inch rain fall caused by Cindy's passing right through Hancock County.

Winds were in the 60 miles per hour category in some gusts. Several low lying streets were flooded, most of them early Wednesday morning.

With preliminary site plans for ten condominium towers already approved for a new C-4 commercial resort district, county officials are scrambling to come up with a "development agreement" for providing services to those tall towers and the thousands of residents they will bring to the county. At present, no services exist in the new C-4 district. The only existing treatment plant, Southern Regional, does not have the capacity to handle the proposed projects.

So far, two meetings have been held between county officials, representatives of the Southern Regional Wastewater Management District, Hancock County Water and Sewer District, and developers and their engineers, in an attempt to begin talks on possible solutions to the problem.

Just how the workshops are progressing depends on who you talk to about the subject. District 2

Second Saturday Hot Spots!

The Second Saturday Hotspots in Bay St. Louis on July 9 are Bay Crafts, at 107 N. Beach Blvd., and The Purple Snapper Gallery at 111A Main Street. Unique work by two artists will be featured at both locations, and the public is invite to attend the free events.

Bay Crafts is proud to present the artistry of Jessica Rupp. Jessica is a native of Bay St. Louis and is looking forward to her first Second Saturday as a featured artist. Currently engaged in a successful career in marketing, her interest in jewelry design has been a passion for Rupp for many years. Her work has been sold in both Baton Rouge and New Orleans, LA.

Rupp's Tangerine Jewelry Designs is a beaded collection of semiprecious stones and intriguing glass. Her unique edge and natural palette allow an extremely wearable line, and she focuses on pattern with an emphasis on color and texture. She uses unusual beads which include vintage Native American seed beads, raw shell, and colorful stones.

At 4 p.m., Rupp will be discussing her work during a special Pre-Artwalk gathering. She will present her popular "cluster ring" which features a fresh water pearl design. Please join the folks at Bay Crafts at 4 p.m. for the presentation and the Hot Spot reception from 5 to 8 p.m.

The Purple Snapper Gallery, 111A Main Street, will feature "From Where I Stand," a show of mixed media collage photography by award winning photographer Katherine Taylor Gray. Included in the fifteen works on exhibit are four pieces of what Katherine calls "Strip Photography." Although these works are often thought to be computer generated, the artist actually cuts two identical photographs into small strips and then painstakingly collages the pieces together, creating an overall image that appears to be in motion. "I like the hands on feel of creating my collages, and I believe them to be unique by that fact - that they were not created by the click of a mouse."

Katherine will be present in the gallery from 5 until 8 p.m. to discuss her work and techniques. "From Where I Stand" will be on exhibit through August 15.

The Pottery People!

THE SEA COAST ECHO Stained Glass By Richie at 131 D Main Street invites you to enter the wonderful world of Sandpeppers, Goofos, Wubbies, Dunderdins, and all the other handmade creations of potter Bobbi Fenton.

Fenton, the subject of a recent television news story and newspaper article, will be the featured artist from July through August 13, and will be in the shop from 5-8 p.m. on Second Saturday, July 9 to meet her fans and talk about her "people pottery." From a smiling cookie jar (with delightful dimples) to a teakettle with a trunk, tusks, and elephant ears (but its not an elephant!) and all the mugs and bowls in between each piece is unique and amusing.

These friendly faces with charming features aren't just for show. The durable high-fired stoneware is microwave, dishwasher, and food safe, making it as practical as it is fun.

For a glimpse into an unusual imaginary world come meet Bobbi Fenton on Second Saturday at Stained Glass By Richie, 131 D Main Street in Bay St. Louis.

Celebrate anniversary during 2nd Saturday

THE SEA COAST ECHO Jenise McCardell and Mark Currier will be celebrating the tenth anniversary of Clay Creations in Bay St. Louis during the July 9 Second Saturday Artwalk.

Clay Creations has a new working studio located at 220 Main Street inside the Funky Rose. Jenise and Mark invite the public to view their newly expanded New Orleans Architecture Clay Creations.

New additions to the line include the Rigolets Lighthouse, the St. Charles Avenue Streetcar, and a Dixie Brewery plaque.

During the Second Saturday Artwalk artists Nancy McCardell, creator of clay light switch plates and custom home plaques, Devon Weston, creator of Hurricane Crosses, and Kai Drobish, creator of a line of Lafayette Louisiana Architecture clay plaques, will be on hand in the studio to discuss their work from 5 to 8 p.m.

Supers want public input on new county noise ordinance

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Over the next 30 days county supervisors will be asking for public input on a new noise ordinance that has been drafted for the county. Highlights of the ordinance include regulations on audio systems, motorized vehicles and pets.

Under the new ordinance noise emanating from motor vehicles, boats, motor cycles, motorized equipment and other devices must be kept within a 50 foot radius in all residential and agricultural areas; sounds from audio equipment in a motor vehicle may not emanate more than 50 feet from the vehicle; audio equipment may also not emanate more than 50 feet from a residence.

Further legislation requires all motor vehicles to be equipped with a muffler; for horns or signaling devices to be used only for the purpose of vehicle, driver or pedestrian safety; for noise from recreational equipment to emanate no more than 50 feet from the property on which it is being operated; for power equipment to be operated only between the hours of 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. except for domestic use, which may be operated between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The ordinance also prohibits owners or keepers of domestic or non-domestic animals or fowl to allow those animals to make frequent or continuing noise that disturbs a person of reasonable sensitivity.

In parks, rights of way, playgrounds, or recreation areas the ordinance prohibits sounds from audio devices or musical instruments to emanate more than 50 feet or be used between the hours of 9 p.m. and 9 a.m.

The ordinance allows for amplifiers to be used to announce sports events if the volume is regulated to the minimum possible.

Regulations do not apply to emergency equipment, church bells or chimes, noise from construction or demolition activities for which a building permit has been issued, rail cars, the installation of public and private utilities, mosquito control or an outdoor evangelistic endeavor.

A copy of the ordinance will be available at the Hancock County Courthouse Board of Supervisors office for viewing.

In other business:

• Appointments to the Pearlinton Sewer Board were made for the following term of expiration: Betty Baxter-2010, Rosa Jackson-2009, Ronnie Cuevas-2008, Van Edmondson-2007, and Kevin Hill-2006.

Supervisors asked again that the minutes of all board meetings be submitted to them for the record.

Supervisors accepted proposals from PSI, City Wide Testing and Carriage Consultants. The companies will be added to a list of consultants that the building office has on file. They will provide another opinion of matters such as site plans submitted by developers for condo projects or casino projects, said building official Mickey Lagasse. Developers will pay the fee for the second opinion, Lagasse said.

• Silver Slipper planners will not be able to leave any dredging spoils at the sand beach when they dredge and area to bring in their new casino barge. They will be required to pay for the 50 feet of sand beach that is removed.

• District 3 Supervisor asked for assistance in finding the Civil Air Patrol plane new hanger space. She said that Hancock County Port and Harbor is requiring the plane to move out of its present hanger due to insurance concerns. The Civil Air Patrol performs rescue missions in the area.

• Cowand voted against the closing of yet more streets in the Lakeshore/Bayou Caddy area. With all the new development, no more streets should be closed until the county is sure about rights of way and future plans, she said.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Dennis may not be as nice as Cindy

It always amazes me at the thinking of some young folks.

For example, on Tuesday evening I stopped by Winn-Dixie to pickup several grocery items, and there was a light rain falling.

As I left the store, parked right in the area of the exit from the store front was a small white vehicle with its motor running.

First of all, the vehicle was parked in a fire lane which is a no-no. Then it was blocking the exit from the sidewalk from the store in which I, as well as several other customers had to jump off the sidewalk to cross to the parking area.

I went to my car after the drop off and when I finished loading my groceries, out pops from the store two young girls, probably in their late teens.

Girls like those two, especially the driver, should not even be considered to own a driver's license.

She sure did not look crippled to me, or even concerned about parking in fire lane area while blocking an exit from a merchant.

I sometimes wonder if parents are trying to teach young ones to observe laws and the use of common courtesies.

The talk of the town on Tuesday was Tropical Storm Cindy.

Once again we were very lucky.

It was very good to see how everything came together in preparations by Hancock County's Emergency Management Agency.

County, cities, law enforcement, state, federal and all agencies were ready.

All those folks need to be commended for their dedication to our community. Cindy could have been much worse, and it the Tropical Storm would have turned into a hurricane, Emergency Management Agency team was ready.

Damages from Cindy were very minimal, several trees were toppled, streets flooded. I know that one of my neighbors got some water in her house. This was the second time for her at the corner of Dunbar, Carroll, and Genin Streets, as she had water last month during the big rain fall.

Covered ditches along Carroll Avenue cause that problem, as leaves and branches stop the drainage.

By the Way, Emergency Management Agency director Brian Adam is now concerned about Tropical Storm Dennis becoming a hurricane. Be alert for new developments.

Growing up in the 'Rough South'

Karl Fleming covered for Newsweek many of the toughest civil rights stories across the South in the 1960s without getting the hell beaten out of him by angry whites.

Then only to be sent to Los Angeles for Newsweek and knocked unconscious by an angry black wielding a 4 by 4 stick of lumber during the 1966 Watts riots.

That ironic twist of fate in the journalistic career of North Carolina native Karl Fleming, you would think, would be the alpha and omega, of his lifetime when he sat down to write a personal memoir spanning his 78 years.

But no. There's lots more—some of it heartrending—in between. He's put it all, in easy flowing prose, in his newly released "Son of the Rough South," subtitled "an Uncivil Memoir," published by Public Affairs, New York.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

A good chunk of his Newsweek experiences covering the often-violent civil rights struggle of the 60s brought Fleming to Mississippi, from James Meredith to the triple murders of the civil rights activists in Neshoba County.

Often, I must add, as The New Orleans Times-Picayune's Mississippi correspondent, I worked alongside Fleming covering the same stories and gained great respect for him. In between Karl's sorties back to the state, I served as Newsweek's Mississippi stringer (part-time correspondent), something I had done since 1950.

When Karl uses the word "rough" in the title to his book, he does so with reason.

Certainly being sent by his schizoid mother to live in a bleak, unforgiving Methodist orphanage outside Raleigh at age eight, growing up there, pitchforking hay and farming food crops, amply qualifies his young life as rough.

That's without saying that his father died six months after Karl's birth in a dirt-poor North Carolina tobacco town, or that a stepfather, somewhat older than Karl's mother, constantly tormented Karl. The man became fatally ill while the family slipped deep into Depression-era poverty.

They wound up in a three-room shack in Vanceboro, and the stepfather was now dead. Craven County welfare authorities declared the family (there was a younger half-sister) destitute, and the already-crowded Methodist Orphanage outside Raleigh agreed to take the two children.

There, Karl would grow tall and gangly and often at odds with orphanage

Letters to the Editor

Creating commercial resort area is finest example of 'Smart Growth'

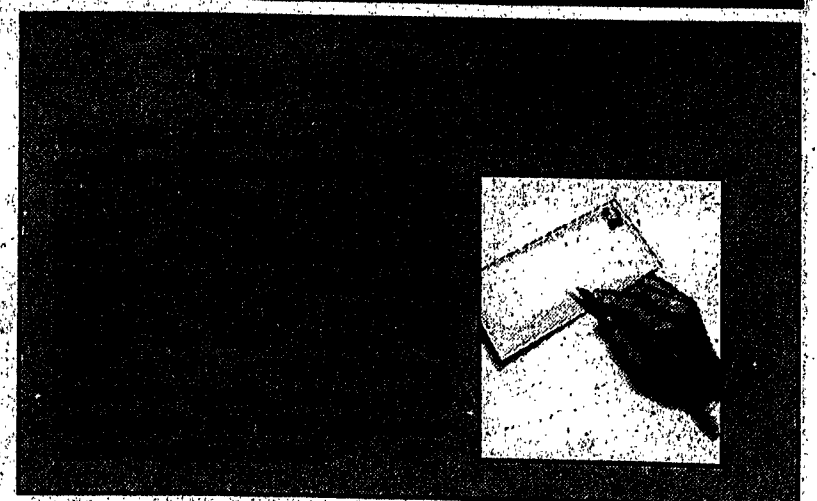

The Letter to the Editor on July 3, 2005 titled "Supervisors should consider resident's needs" is an example of pure propaganda by obstructionist individuals with the agenda to stop all progress and growth on the coast. The action of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors in their May 2 vote to rezone 1000 acres of agricultural and C-2 zone land into a commercial resort area is one of the finest examples of Smart Growth that can be found in any community.

Realizing that at least 30 million additional people are projected to move to the Gulf Coast within the next 25 years, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, with the able assistance of the Planning and Zoning Board, spent the last 5 years researching and planning how to best accommodate the growth that is coming. After much planning they came to the conclusion that it would be best to contain condo development in a specific geographic area. They chose the over 1000 acres in the Lakeshore area as the best Smart Growth area. The area currently has maybe 20 families permanently living in the 1000 acres. It is already zoned commercial, is in the "middle of nowhere", and is supported by virtually all of the enclosed landowners and residents.

At each step of the way all agencies did what is right and proper. They insisted the developers pay for all improvements, not the County. All legal requirements were met including public hearings at which the land owners and the majority of those directly affected by the change spoke in favor of the change. There were four or five who objected at the hearing, but they did not live in the area

Hancock County is paradise on earth

To everyone in Hancock County:

Do you really know what you have?

Hancock County is one of the few "paradise on earth" places left in America. This is a quaint, laid-back community from yesteryear. You have what most of America doesn't have, like a good police and fire department, a record of good politicians, low drug traffic, good school systems, low murders, quiet peaceful community, low county debt, low thefts, intermingling neighbors, low controlled traffic, a real estate base that is growing, a good tax base. All of which I came away from when I moved here five years ago to away from. My family has been coming over here for some 40 years. All of the people from elsewhere I have talked to think this is a great place with its laid back traffic, narrow streets, quaint shops, and friendly people. We loved the ordinance of no high-rises.

We need to understand the Board of Supervisor's desire to make the County authorities, until after his 17th birthday when his mother signed a release so he could join the Navy, now in the final three months of World War II.

Minor -- Rough South

The war was over and Fleming was out of the Navy. Armed with the G.I. Bill and a scholarship his old coach at the orphanage helped him get, he went to Appalachian State, a small college in the North Carolina mountains.

His stay in college gave Fleming his first leap into journalism when the tiny Wilson Daily Times hired him as a cub reporter. But in college he had started drinking, a problem that would plague his later newsman years.

Put on the police beat, Karl was exposed to the seedy side of the town and saw how local police kept black folks in line by intimidation, raising his conscience for the first time in his life to the civil rights struggle of Southern blacks.

From the Wilson Daily Times, he went on to the Morning Herald in Raleigh writing sports and getting married (the first of two). Then a year or so later a step up the journalist ladder to the Asheville Citizen, moving closer to Atlanta where his career as a courageous civil rights reporter would later take off.

His freelancing for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution landed him a job on the AJC's Sunday magazine and from there to the Newsweek bureau in Atlanta. This being the early 1960s and Fleming eager to show his talents as a hard-driving gutsy reporter, Newsweek tossed him into covering the civil rights movement almost full-time.

It was then 1962 and James Meredith edged closer toward his historic showdown to break down the long-standing racial barriers in Mississippi's higher education system. Fleming found himself frequently covering the slightly-built black man who many labeled as "crazy" to think he could crack the color line at the state's most prized university, Ole Miss.

Suffice it to say that Fleming was on the campus during the nightlong bloody September 30 riot over Meredith's entry that was only put down after hundreds of Army troops arrived.

When the three civil rights workers in June, 1964 went missing and their bodies later were found buried in a farm pond dam, Fleming and his colleague, Claude Sittion of the New York Times, virtually took up residence in a flimsy Philadelphia motel where armed Klansmen often sat in cars outside the newsmen's room.

Here and there in his memoir, Fleming gets a name wrong or puts himself in a spot where he wasn't when some major confrontation took place in Mississippi.

For instance, not Sim Fentress of Time Magazine, but Don Urbrock of Life was knocked through a plate-glass store window by white toughs on McComb's main street in 1963 during a violent day when the bus terminal was desegregated. Fentress, however, was slugged by another man after both journalists stepped onto the sidewalk just ahead of me as we left the McComb Enterprise-Journal newspaper office.

Nor could Karl have been inside the tightly-guarded, Continuation Education Center on the Ole Miss campus September 20, 1962 and overheard Gov. Ross Barnett's closed-door confrontation with Meredith in his initial attempt to register under federal court order.

We reporters were kept 75 feet back from the center by a cordon of state highway patrolmen. We only learned second-handedly from a university official allowed inside the approximate words Barnett and the U.S. officer escorting Meredith used.

So what if Karl did take a few poetic liberties with some details of events that some of us reporters present may remember more precisely? That doesn't diminish the overall impact of the dangers of reporting the turbulent civil rights story which Karl tells very well, with a generous splash of drama to make it more vivid.

and have a long history of objecting to any progress along the entire coast.

The letter writers indicate that a group of citizens, who live in the area, filed a lawsuit to stop the zoning change. The writers neglected to mention these citizens were actively solicited to file the lawsuit by disgruntled individuals who do not live in the area.

In a Memorandum delivered to the Board of Supervisors by a Notary Public on May 25 one of the appellants flatly stated he did not agree to have his name on the lawsuit. He further stated when he was approached he was told that money was not necessary as others would put up the money for the lawsuit as they had done for his neighbors. Yes, as the letter writer stated "it is every citizen's right to challenge the government when they believe an incorrect decision has been made." Coastal Community Watch (CCW) has stopped progress and interfered in numerous developments along the coast. It makes no difference to them the damage they do. It only cost them $95 to file a lawsuit while it costs others millions. It achieves their purpose as it does stop development and its attendant jobs and tax benefits.

I would be remiss if I did not mention tax benefits. One condo unit will generate about $6000 a year in property taxes. There are generally about 200 units in one condo tower. That equals about $1,200,000 per year per condo tower in property taxes for our schools, police and other services. That does not include the increase in jobs, etc.

Responsibility should accrue to those, like CCW, who seek to defy the property rights of others by using the courts to take property rights away. They should be made to pay for the damage they do and this why groups like PPG and individual property owners should file action against groups like CCW who want only to impede progress at the expense of others. This is not intimidation, it is assigning responsibility where it belongs and places the financial burden on those who cause damage and not on those who follow the tenants of Smart Growth.

grow which has some value for the future.

I left a community with plenty of murders, rapes, drugs, molesters, and theft. A place of badly run schools and crooked politics.

Hancock citizens - what you have is beautiful as it is. As most citizens don't know, nor I, is how this drastic change could forever change your paradise. This affects all of Hancock County. Was the zone change posed in all of Hancock County?

Isn't this still a land "of the people, by the people and for the people?"

When does the majority rule?

Just one man's opinion.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Dennis may not be as nice as Cindy

It always amazes me at the thinking of some young folks.

For example, on Tuesday evening I stopped by Winn-Dixie to pickup several grocery items, and there was a light rain falling.

As I left the store, parked right in the area of the exit from the store front was a small white vehicle with its motor running.

First of all, the vehicle was parked in a fire lane which is a no-no. Then it was blocking the exit from the sidewalk from the store in which I, as well as several other customers had to jump off the sidewalk to cross to the parking area.

I went to my car after the drop off and when I finished loading my groceries, out pops from the store two young girls, probably in their late teens.

Girls like those two, especially the driver, should not even be considered to own a driver's license.

She sure did not look crippled to me, or even concerned about parking in fire lane area while blocking an exit from a merchant.

I sometimes wonder if parents are trying to teach young ones to observe laws and the use of common courtesies.

The talk of the town on Tuesday was Tropical Storm Cindy.

Once again we were very lucky.

It was very good to see how everything came together in preparations by Hancock County's Emergency Management Agency.

County, cities, law enforcement, state, federal and all agencies were ready.

All those folks need to be commended for their dedication to our community. Cindy could have been much worse, and it the Tropical Storm would have turned into a hurricane, Emergency Management Agency team was ready.

Damages from Cindy were very minimal, several trees were toppled, streets flooded. I know that one of my neighbors got some water in her house. This was the second time for her at the corner of Dunbar, Carroll, and Genin Streets, as she had water last month during the big rain fall.

Covered ditches along Carroll Avenue cause that problem, as leaves and branches stop the drainage.

By the Way, Emergency Management Agency director Brian Adam is now concerned about Tropical Storm Dennis becoming a hurricane. Be alert for new developments.

Growing up in the 'Rough South'

Karl Fleming covered for Newsweek many of the toughest civil rights stories across the South in the 1960s without getting the hell beaten out of him by angry whites.

Then only to be sent to Los Angeles for Newsweek and knocked unconscious by an angry black wielding a 4 by 4 stick of lumber during the 1966 Watts riots.

That ironic twist of fate in the journalistic career of North Carolina native Karl Fleming, you would think, would be the alpha and omega, of his lifetime

when he sat down to write a personal memoir spanning his 78 years.

But no. There's lots more—some of it heartrending—in between. He's put it all, in easy flowing prose, in his newly released "Son of the Rough South," subtitled "an Uncivil Memoir," published by Public Affairs, New York.

A good chunk of his Newsweek experiences covering the often-violent civil rights struggle of the 60s brought Fleming to Mississippi, from James Meredith to the triple murders of the civil rights activists in Neshoba County.

Often, I must add, as The New Orleans Times-Picayune's Mississippi correspondent, I worked alongside Fleming covering the same stories and gained great respect for him. In between Karl's sorties back to the state, I served as Newsweek's Mississippi stringer (part-time correspondent), something I had done since 1950.

When Karl uses the word "rough" in the title to his book, he does so with reason.

Certainly being sent by his schizoid mother to live in a bleak, unforgiving Methodist orphanage outside Raleigh at age eight, growing-up there, pitchforking hay and farming food crops, amply qualifies his young life as rough.

That's without saying that his father died six months after Karl's birth in a dirt-poor North Carolina tobacco town, or that a stepfather, somewhat older than Karl's mother, constantly tormented Karl. The man became fatally ill while the family slipped deep into Depression-era poverty.

They wound up in a three-room shack in Vanceboro, and the stepfather was now dead. Craven County welfare authorities declared the family (there was a younger half-sister) destitute, and the already-crowded Methodist Orphanage outside Raleigh agreed to take the two children.

There, Karl would grow tall and gangly and often at odds with orphanage

Letters to the Editor

Creating commercial resort area is finest example of 'Smart Growth'

The Letter to the Editor on July 3, 2005 titled "Supervisors should consider resident's needs" is an example of pure propaganda by obstructionist individuals with the agenda to stop all progress and growth on the coast. The action of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors in their May 2 vote to rezone 1000 acres of agricultural and C-2 zone land into a commercial resort area is one of the finest examples of Smart Growth that can be found in any community.

Realizing that at least 30 million additional people are projected to move to the Gulf Coast within the next 25 years, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, with the able assistance of the Planning and Zoning Board, spent the last 5 years researching and planning how to best accommodate the growth that is coming. After much planning they came to the conclusion that it would be best to contain condo development in a specific geographic area. They chose the over 1000 acres in the Lakeshore area as the best Smart Growth area. The area currently has maybe 20 families permanently living in the 1000 acres. It is already zoned commercial, is in the "middle of nowhere", and is supported by virtually all of the enclosed landowners and residents.

At each step of the way all agencies did what is right and proper. They insisted the developers pay for all improvements, not the County. All legal requirements were met including public hearings at which the land owners and the majority of those directly affected by the change spoke in favor of the change. There were four or five who objected at the hearing, but they did not live in the area

To everyone in Hancock County: Do you really know what you have?

Hancock County is one of the few "paradise on earth" places left in America. This is a quaint, laid-back community from yesteryear.

You have what most of America doesn't have, like a good police and fire department, a record of good politicians, low drug traffic, good school systems, low murders, quiet peaceful community, low county debt, low thefts, intermingling neighbors, low controlled traffic, a real estate base that is growing, a good tax base. All of which I came away from when I moved here five years ago to away from. My family has been coming over here for some 40 years. All of the people from elsewhere I have talked to think this is a great place with its laid back traffic, narrow streets, quaint shops, and friendly people. We loved the ordinance of no high-rises.

We need to understand the Board of Supervisor's desire to make the County

Condos -- costs growing

Supervisor Lisa Cowand expressed frustration with the initial workshop because of the small number of the "players" in attendance, she said.

At the initial workshop were developers Kirk Ladner, Richard Kern, and Mike Juneau; supervisors Steve Seymour, Cowand, and David Yarborough; and Southern Regional Board Member Tommy Longo. At a second workshop Yarborough and consultant Genelle Thompkins represented supervisors; G.W. Grahm and Bob Fricks represented Hancock Water and Sewer District, and Ladner and Juneau represented developers. Southern Regional attorney Ronnie Artigues was consulted by phone, he said. Compton engineering attended both workshops, representing the developers.

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman and District 1 Supervisor David Yarborough have both said that the county will not cover the cost of bringing the needed infrastructure.

"They will need to pay their own way," Pullman said on Tuesday.

"If it is going to cost the taxpayers one dime I don't care if anything goes in down there," said Yarborough. "I think there is a lot of revenue to be gained, but I don't want it to be a burden on the taxpayers."

Workshops, so far seem to be operating under that premise, though on Thursday, developer Mike Juneau from Southern Shore Development said he was hesitant to make any promises until all the details were presented and discussed.

"We are participating in a work group with the county and others involved in an attempt to overcome problems, to find a way to bring sewer service to the developments," said Juneau on Wednesday. "Our goal is to find a way to provide that service so that it won't be a cost to residents, but I don't know yet if that will be successful."

Initial costs for a plant to service the first wave of condo dwellers, estimated to be around 1,000 units within two years, and up to 3,000 units within three years could run around $8 million or more, or around the same cost as the permanent plant to service west Hancock County and the Pearlinton area. This cost would not include the cost of collection and transmission or the cost of water services. To build a plant to service the ten year estimate of around 7,500 units, the cost could skyrocket to $20 million or more.

Talks to work out a solution for sewer service are critical because of the time involved in carrying the project to finish, said Juneau. Water service agreements are not as critical because they don't take as long to complete.

"Obviously I'm not going to build a big building without a sewer system to service it," he said.

Juneau said that many cities, like Pensacola, would provide the needed infrastructure, because the basis for the new infrastructure would already be there.

Suggestions now are that the developers group together, which they are doing Juneau said, to come up with a proposal to present to the county. The Board of Supervisors has retained Gulf Regional Planning and other consultants to help them come up with a development agreement to present to developers. The county is also considering engineers to go over any site plans submitted to help raise issues that need to be included in the development agreement, said Artigues.

Suggestions raised at the first two workshops include the idea of the developers building a treatment plant and infrastructure privately, avoiding lengthy public bid laws and grant and loan applications that can take years. All permits required in the public arena would still be required in the private arena, said Compton engineer Geoffrey Clemens who serves as county engineer.

Another suggestion is that once the infrastructure is in place, Southern Regional could take over the running of the plant and

Hancock Water and Sewer could take over the collection and billing, Clemens said. Both the plant and the infrastructure could be built for future expansion, Clemens said, by either the developers or the county, as needed. Developers would provide funding only to service their needs. Another workshop is scheduled for next week.

Storms -- Dennis the Menace?

The National Weather Service is predicting Tropical Storm Dennis will make landfall somewhere near the Florida Panhandle on Sunday.

ing Cindy, only minor flooding of some streets and there were a few trees and limbs that fell.

Hancock Board of Supervisors Lisa Cowand and Steve Seymour reported they had made a pass along Beach Boulevard early Wednesday and the road was open.

Many Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Department, and Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies were on duty throughout the night on patrols. On Wednesday morning cities and county crews were busy clearing drainage ditches of debris left as Cindy passed through the area.

"We do need to keep our guard up, as we were very lucky that Cindy was only a Tropical Storm. It appears that Dennis is going to develop into a hurricane according to the Experts," Adam emphasized.

Adam continued, "Citizens need to keep abreast of the future developments of Dennis."

Mid-morning Wednesday, Adam was out checking road conditions and said in the Heron Bay area there was still some water across the roads.

"Even with all warnings lifted for the county, motorists still need to use caution as they approach a road still covered by water," Adam said.

another alleged false pretense in addition to warrants for two counts of alleged home repair fraud."

According to Barnett, the false pretense comes in as Martin had signed contracts, took cash payments from two people to do carpentry work, and never did any. Martin also is alleged to have had contracts to do work on two jobs began the jobs and never completed them.

Barnett said Martin was supposed to turn himself in at the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility on Wednesday.

Garber said anyone with information about Martin's whereabouts should call the sheriff's office at 228-467-5101, 601-798-8555 (Picayune Exchange), or investigations department at 228-467-1496.

All information will be kept in strict confidence, Garber stated.

Boil water advisory at White Cypress, Jourdan River Shores

Total Environmental Solutions Inc. issued a Boil Water Notice for people who live in the White Cypress Lakes Subdivision and Jourdan River Shores in Hancock County.

The system lost pressure due to an electrical problem. These precautions should be taken until public notice is given.

Lee Purvis, Manager of Operations for the water system, said this precautionary action is necessary whenever a public water system loses pressure for any reason.

Public health officials consider any system that has lost pressure contaminated until tests of the water prove otherwise.

When pressure is restored, officials recommend that customers vigorously boil for one minute any water to be consumed. Users will be notified when tests show the water is safe.

Bay community and casino employees roll-up their sleeves for American Red Cross blood drive

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Over 200 donors filled the Cypress Bay Room in the Bay Tower Hotel at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis to donate precious needed blood for the Red Cross. The Red Cross collected 218 pints from the public with 106 of those coming from Casino Magic Bay St. Louis team members.

"All the blood collected will stay right here to serve patients in the coast area," said Liz Gaulke of the Red Cross. "We are still in desperate need of blood and we've made it very smooth and fast to donate. In most cases, you can be in and out in less than an hour," said Gaulke.

The Red Cross strived to reach their goal of collecting 1050 pints during the Radio for Red Cross blood drive which traveled to different cities along the coast.

The generous nature and willingness of the Casino Magic Team Members to rally to such a worthy cause always fills me with a sense of pride and gratitude. That's what makes Casino Magic a truly "Magical" place. This year's Radio For Red Cross Blood

Drive was no different, the Team Members really came through!" said Darren Loranger who helped coordinate the drive with the Red Cross. Donors are always needed and appreciated. For more information on how you can donate blood con-

Hot dog! Summer time in South Mississippi!

Pet Projects
By Paula Leoni

The other day I was driving down Hwy. 90 and happened to be behind a pick-up truck with a dog in the truck bed. The temperature that day was over ninety degrees, and as we sat at a red light, I watched this black dog dance around on the dark blue truck bed that must have been scaldingly hot. His mobility was somewhat limited by the tie line he was attached to, which appeared to be just long enough for him to flip over the side and hang himself should the driver suddenly swerve. When I passed the truck, I also noticed that although the canine passenger was panting heavily and clearly extremely uncomfortable, the cab windows were rolled up and the driver was enjoying a cold drink along with his air-conditioning.

Shame on you, whoever you are! How would you like to be standing barefoot on a metal surface in the blazing sun, wearing a fur coat?

I worked as a veterinary technician for 8 years, and during that time I saw many sad and horrific consequences that occurred as a result of owners allowing their dogs to ride in open truck beds. I've seen dogs literally skinned alive when they jumped or fell from moving trucks, and dogs strangled to death by tethers intended to keep the dog in the back. I'll never forget the stomach-churning remains of a once beautiful animal that fell out of an open tail-gate and was dragged several miles before the owner realized what had happened.

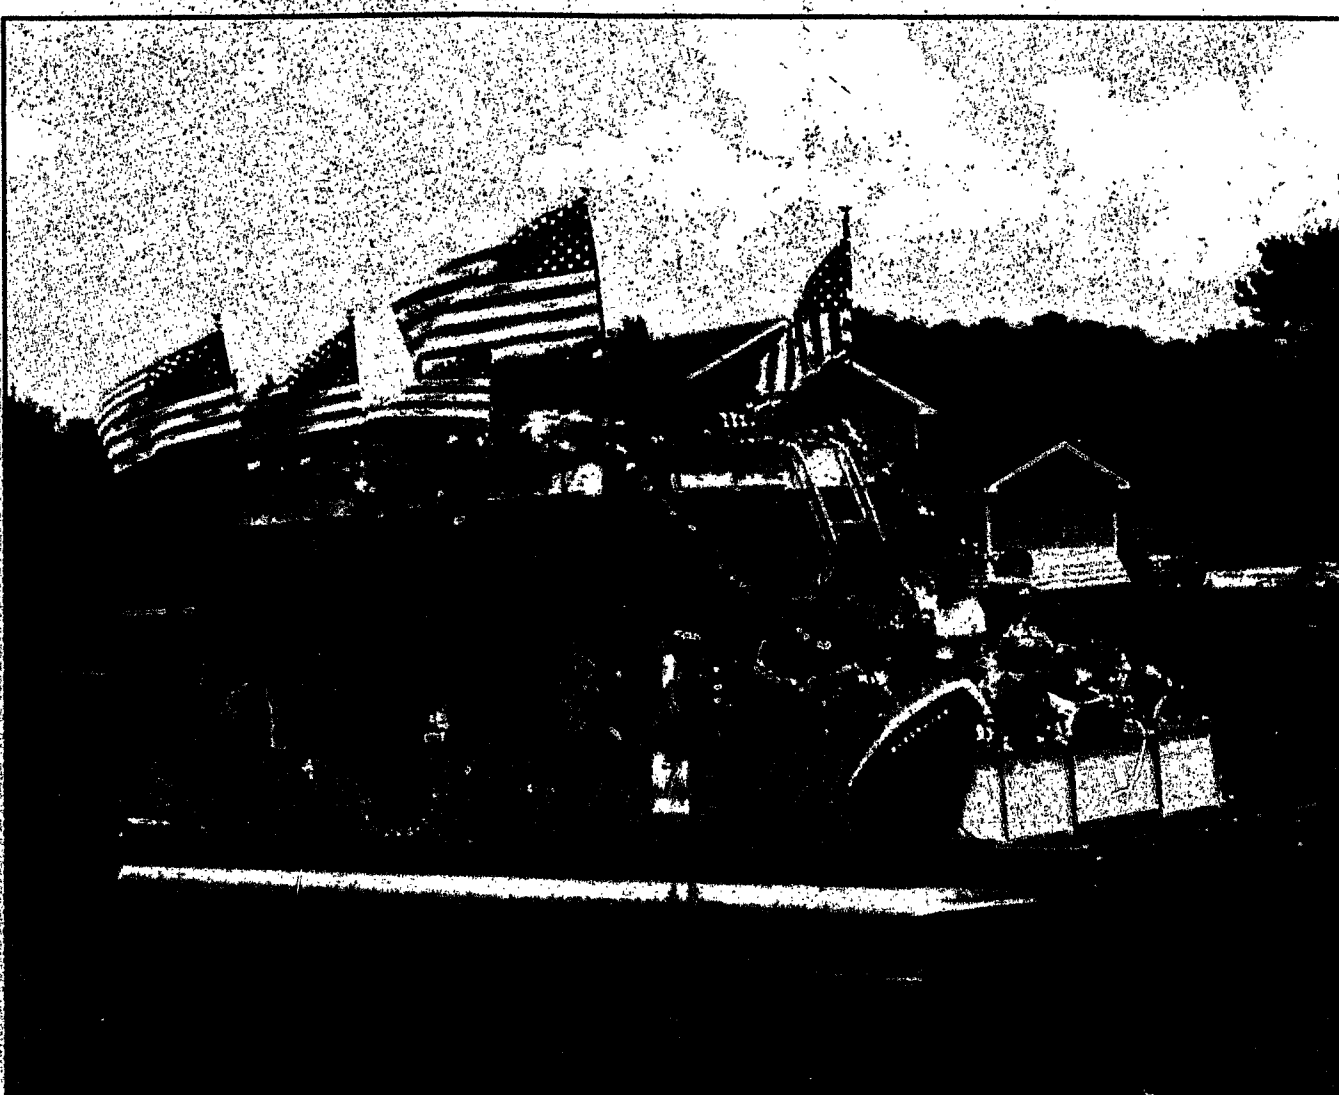

Death from heatstroke almost seems like a merciful way to die in comparison, but there's nothing painless about literally being roasted. Disorientation and dehydration are followed by convulsions, collapse, and coma as the body's organs begin to cook. The breeze created by a moving vehicle cannot compensate for the heat generated by high temperatures and direct sun.

Don't allow your dog to ride in your truck bed. If he can't sit in the cab with you, leave him at home. If you do take your dog along for the ride, don't leave him waiting in the hot car while you run in the store "for just a minute." Once the air conditioner is off, even with the windows open, the interior temperature can soar over 100 degrees in minutes. Your dog can die in the time it takes you to purchase milk, bread, and eggs.

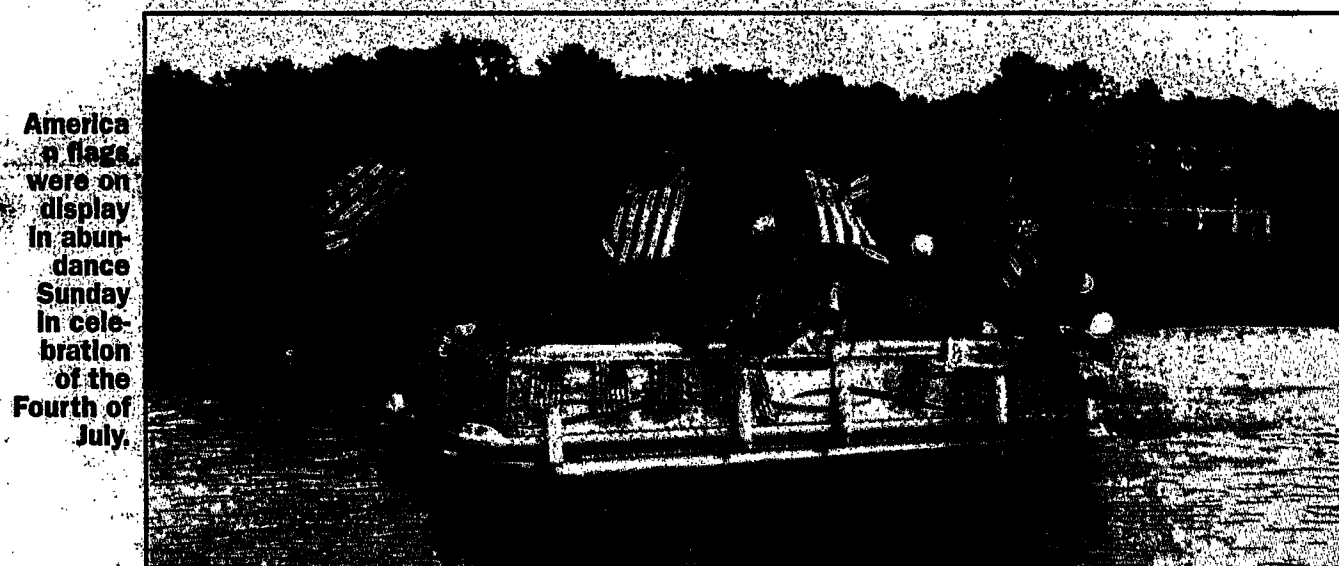

At home, if your dog is outside, be certain he always has access to shade and water. A doghouse sitting in the open sun is not shade, at midday it's an oven. Remember that as the Coast Electric Power Association received support in its fear of a "takeover" by Mississippi Power Company (MPC) from 1,100 Rural Electric Systems at a National Board of Co-ops meeting Thursday in Washington, D.C. Coast Electric Manager Henry Thomas, who addressed the group, reported his co-op received support in "whatever day needed" from over 1,100 Rural Electric systems in 47 states. Thomas talked to the group about a recent approach by the Southern Company (MPC's parent company) seeking for a combined operation with Coast Electric.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

June 30, 1955 - Marijuana patch found blooming in middle of Bay St. Louis. Thirty-five plants of marijuana, estimated at $1,000 were found in a thickly infested jungle of weeds and shrubbery in the central part of Bay St. Louis Tuesday by Constable Nolan Kingston. Constable Kingston discovered the while investigating a report of prowlers in that vicinity. His suspicions were aroused when he noticed that these plants were fertilized and were surrounded by moth balls. A large number of cans containing water were also found in the immediate area. Kingston assisted by Herman Meier, confiscated the plants and turned them over to the Narcotics bureau in New Orleans. The plants had been planted nearly a week and the largest had grown to a height of a foot and a half. In 30 days the plants would have been large enough and the seeds would have matured enough for picking. Kingston said he had a couple of suspects and is working on the case at this time.

Mrs. Edna C. Jones was buried on Campbell Island Friday. Mrs. Jones was the daughter of the late Charles Campbell whose family came to the Island from Scotland in 1874. She died in Jacksonville, Fla. where she taught school since 1918. She graduate from Mississippi Southern College, Bowling Green Business College and took special course from Drake College in Chicago. Survivors are Miss Christian Campbell, a sister; R.G. Campbell, a brother; and several nieces and nephews.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

Approximately 15,600 German prisoners of war are held at base and side camps in Mississippi and are assigned work as needed to relieve the manpower shortage in agriculture, timber or industry under private contract or at Army installations for maintenance and repair. Major General Edward H. Brooks, commanding general Fourth Service command announced in Atlanta on July 2. The working prisoners are paid 80 cents a day in canteen coupons -- with a sharply curtailed list of items available. General Brooks explained. The prisoners are shifted under private contract and in Mississippi they are hoeing cotton, corn, other field crops, chemical wood and pulpwood and late in the fall pick cotton. In Mississippi the following places and camps held and numbers are: Belzoni 413, Brookhaven 251, Clarksdale 512, Clinton 1,952 base camp, Como 1,393 base camp, Drew 414, Elkas 494, Greenville 251, Greenwood 304, Indianola 356, Leland 481, Camp McCain 5,345 base camp, Merigold 250, Picayune 227, Richton 303, Rosedale 250, Sautier 305, Camp Shelby 1,989 base camp.

July 2, 1892 - The thirty-seventh annual commencement of St. Stanislaus Commercial College took place on Thursday before an appreciative and large audience. The graduates were, Messrs. Harrison Reese, of Bay St. Louis, E.B. Douglas, H.W. Fitzpatrick, J. Zacharee Hardee, and J. Ferrell, the later valedictorian.

Last Sunday the two children of Mr. Jose Casanova of Logtown, were baptized at St. Rose's Catholic Church. Bayou LaCroix, by the Rev. Father Mortier. The ceremony being over the invited guests, numbering over forty, proceeded to the residence of Mr. Morin where they enjoyed a picnic, followed by a grand dinner and winding up with a dance.

sun moves during the day, an area that is shaded in the morning may be sunny by noon. Water containers must be untippable and reachable. If your dogs on a tie-out line, make sure he can't get wrapped around anything and be unable to reach water. No dog should be left unsupervised on a tie-out, even a small fenced area or kennel is preferable. A great solution for dogs that somehow always manage to spill their water is a plastic kiddie pool. In addition to providing plenty of drinking water, your dog may enjoy taking a refreshing dip in his personal swimming pool! Freezing a gallon milk jug filled with water makes a simple, chilly plaything. Special gel-filled "cool mats" are available, and if you have a safe, covered area, a box fan will be much appreciated by your dog.

Using a little common sense and considering your dog's health, safety, and comfort during the hot months ahead will ensure that you'll both have a "cool" summer!

RESTAURANT REVIEW

Presenting some of the finest Restaurants on the Mississippi Gulf Coast

Attention Restaurant Owners...

Advertising is an investment in the success of your restaurant. Every restaurant has competition, either within the town, or nearby city. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and dine elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their dining habits from one restaurant to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your restaurant.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your restaurant. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know what specials you are offering, perhaps what entertainment you may have and the character of your restaurant.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off.

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading. It is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Since 1892, The Sea Coast Echo is proud to be a part of your community.

PRCC tops preseason football poll

THE SEA COAST ECHO Butler. Last year's title was Pearl River's second in history. Legendary PRCC head coach Dobie Holden coached the Wildcats to their first national championship in 1961. The Wildcats defeated Hinds for back-to-back MACJC championships in 2003 and 2004.

The Wildcats, who won the 2004 national championship last season via its convincing 35-14 victory over 2003 champ Butler CC (Kan.) in last November's Dalton Defenders Bowl in Coffeyville, Kansas, were one of four MACJC teams in the preseason balloting. Perennial powerhouse Hinds is No. 7 in the poll, while Northwest Mississippi is 14th and Jones 23rd. Dixie State College of Utah was second in the poll, followed by perfect 12-0 mark, kicks off its defense of its national and state crowns Thursday, September 1, on the road in Fulton against North Division foe Itawamba.

The Wildcats return six starters (four on offense and two on defense) and 22 lettermen this fall.

Leading the way will be redshirt sophomore quarterback Jimmy Oliver, Region 23's "Offensive Player of the Year" in 2004, who led the nation in individual total offense with 3,658 yards (passing and rushing), while finishing second in the nation in passing with 3,487 yards (290.6 yards a game). Oliver's passing yard average was 1.8 yards per game short of the nation's leader Omar Haugabook of Dodge City CC (Kan.). He also

"It's an honor for our guys to generate that kind of attention," said PRCC head coach Tim Hatten who has compiled a 29-4 mark in his three seasons with the Wildcats. "We're returning a solid group of sophomores and have what I feel is our top recruiting class in a long time. We look to be very competitive. This is definitely something positive to build on."

Pearl River, which finished its 2004 season with a copped All-MACJC and All-Region 23 honors. Oliver also topped the country in pass completions (207), attempts (379), yards (3,487), and touchdowns (40) last season and was named to the NJCAA's All-American first team.

Other returning offensive standouts include offensive linemen Ryan Sefton and Scotty Dunn, running back Mike McClendon, and wide receivers Brandon Fountain and Kyle Sellers. On the defensive side, returning standouts include linemen Frank Harry, Ben McGilton, and Vince Strickland; linebackers Chris Lowery and George Leverette, and defensive back Shalamar Walker.

Shark Attacked!

Fred Newbury, top left, watches as workers at the 57th Annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo unload his new state record Silky shark. The Gulfport angler was fishing in about 270 feet of water with the 214 pound, four once monster hit. It took over an hour and a half in heavy seas to land the giant 109 inch creature. Newbury said he hooked the shark, using cut bait, right after sunrise Sunday while fishing with several military buddies aboard his boat Dream Catcher on a two day trip. The record has to be certified by the Department of Marine Resources.

American Red Cross sports safety training

An injured athlete is every coaches worst fear. Whether you're coaching little league, high school students or this country's elite athletes, you feel responsible for making sure your athletes are safe both in practice and during competition. But sports related injuries do occur. That's why the American Red Cross and the United States Olympic Committee have teamed up to bring you a newly revised sports safety training specifically designed for coaches, athletic trainers and others interested in sports. Sports safety training is designed to help eliminate potentially hazardous conditions in various sports environments, recognize emergencies and make appropriate decisions for first aid care. The training features video, hands-on classroom instruction and interactive group exercises with activities, plus a handy reference book to use and keep with you during competitions and practice. The MS Gulf Coast Chapter of American Red Cross will be offering a sports safety course July 15 from 5 to 9 p.m. and July 16 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Once you complete the course you will be certified in sports injury prevention, first aid, adult and child CPR with automated external defibrillation. The course fee is $40 which includes all your participant materials.

Entertainment

Enjoy An Evening With Joan Rivers

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Comedienne and fashion critic, Joan Rivers delivers two hilarious new performances at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on July 8th & 9th at 9 p.m. Tickets are $19.95 - $49.95 and are available at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet. Premium seating is available as well as hotel packages.

Joan Rivers is one of the hardest working women in the world. She's a comedienne, bestselling author, Tony-nominated actress, playwright, screenwriter, motion picture director, Emmy-Award-winning television talk-show host, jewelry designer, business woman and mother. Her trademark mix of outspoken wit, savvy and compassion has established her as one of America's most trusted and admired first ladies of comedy.

Through her consistent appearance on Best Dressed lists, her ratings-winning fashion reports on E! Entertainment television, and her unprecedented success on QVC with her personally designed, award-winning Classics Collection of jewelry, Joan Rivers has also become synonymous with current trends, taste, elegance, and style. She's a true fashion diva.

The child of Russian immigrants, Rivers, 72, was born in Brooklyn, the younger of two daughters. She was certain since earliest memory that she belonged on stage.

She discovered her gift for comedy at the age of 12. Telling a story to some of her father's doctor colleagues, she suddenly realized that they were laughing with her, not at her. She had found a way to be appreciated, admired, and in control. It was an epiphany in her struggle to comedy stardom.

After graduating Phi Beta Kappa, with no encouragement for a show business career, she took a job as a buyer for Lord & Taylor. Her flair for fashion soon got her a better position at Bond's, where she met and married the son of the vice president. The marriage lasted six months.

Determined to never again give up on her dream, Rivers made the rounds in New York, covering her shyness and insecurity with jokes. She appeared in a few off Broadway plays but was told she'd have a better chance doing comedy.

Constantly struggling, Rivers toured with USO shows, performed with Chicago's Second City, and worked the coffeehouses of Greenwich Village. A new generation of young comics struggled alongside her. Woody Allen, George Carlin, Dick Cavett and Richard Pryor were working the same clubs, with the same dream. Lenny Bruce caused her to recognize and use her own wellspring of unsparring personal humor which soon became her comedic hallmark.

In 1965, a booking on The Tonight Show with Johnny Carson finally turned Rivers' show business dream into a reality. Four months later, she met and married producer Edgar Rosenberg, and on January 20, 1968, their daughter Melissa was born.

"Edgar didn't understand much about the whole thing. After Melissa was born, he stood and waited for her luggage to come out," jokes Rivers.

That year, she got one of the first syndicated talk shows on daytime TV, That Show With Joan Rivers. Subsequent guest hosting on The Tonight Show and appearances on The Ed Sullivan Show rapidly turned her career into comedy gold.

After moving to Hollywood, Joan wrote a TV movie The Girl Most Likely To (giving Stockard Channing her first break) and then wrote and directed her first feature film Rabbit Test, casting a then relatively unknown Billy Crystal in the starring role. The film has since become a cult classic.

In 1983, Rivers became the permanent guest host on The Tonight Show and her star was rising meteorically. She was a top Las Vegas headliner, had sold out concerts at Carnegie Hall, a Grammy nominated comedy album, two best-selling books and her picture on the covers of Newsweek and People magazines. Then suddenly her world spun upside down. Her husband suffered a serious heart attack. Her widely publicized Fox show, The Late Show Starring Joan Rivers was canceled, and she became persona non grata in Hollywood. In August 1987, Edgar, her husband of twenty-two years committed suicide.

She had hit bottom, but she wouldn't stay there. Rivers moved back to New York and in a few months took over the role of Kate Jerome in Neil Simon's Broadway Bound and garnered great reviews. In 1989, the Tribune Corporation launched Rivers in her own new syndicated daytime talk show. She won an Emmy, a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, and a new lease on life.

As National Chairwoman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Rivers began giving lectures around the world on suicide prevention and survival.

QVC offered her the opportunity to design and sell her own line of costume jewelry, the Joan Rivers Classics Collection. Her struggle to survive became an NBC-TV movie, Tears and Laughter: The Joan and Melissa Rivers Story—in which both she and Melissa starred. In 1994, Rivers wrote and starred on Broadway in Sally Marr and Her Escorts, for which she received a Best Actress Tony nomination.

Don't miss Joan Rivers in two dynamic new performances, July 8th & 9th at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis! You must be at least 21 to attend.

Auditions for 'Witchcraze'

"Witchcraze" is an original musical written and composed by Mississippi artist Patricia Causey and is the inaugural production for her new company, Gathering Grove Productions. Rooted in historical documentation and the psychology of 1692, "Witchcraze" deals with Women's Rights, Human Rights, and the importance of protecting our First Amendment rights - themes which are relevant to 2005.

Auditions for "Witchcraze" will be held at the Biloxi Saenger, July 9, at 1 p.m. Be there by 12:30 p.m. Show dates are October 28-30, 2005 at the Biloxi Saenger. (For those who cannot make these Auditions, please contact Patricia Causey to arrange another time.)

Singers, actors, and dancers are needed for principal, supporting, feature, and company roles.

Men, women, and teenagers ages 12-70. Voices: S-A-T-B and boy soprano.

Song styles: Broadway, Choral, Dixieland/Gospel, & Rag.

For auditions: Bring a copy of your music so that it can be written on - do not bring original vocal music/score. You will sing 16 measures of your sheet music or 30 seconds of CD accompaniment (make sure you know exactly where you want to start singing; i.e., 29 second intro leaves 1 second to sing). You will also sing scales, and everyone will read from the script.

There will be a Dance Audition. Bring knee pads if you have them.

The cast needed for this show is huge. Diversity is key, so all shapes, sizes, and skin tones are welcome!

Go to the website, <http://www.witchcraze.com/>, and check out the roles and their characteristics. Then go to the auditions page to read a little more information about what to prepare.

If you have any questions, please contact Patricia Causey: 365-2910 or WitchcrazeMusic@aol.com.
